

Local baby celebrities receive welcome package from Phoenix area business

Company donates diapers, bibs, blankets and washcloths to Arizona's first ever sextuplets

(SCOTTSDALE, Ariz.) – Bumkins Finer Baby Products, a home-grown baby accessories company, recently helped to welcome the Masche sextuplets in to the world by presenting them with baby supplies to get their first days started off in style.

Bumkins Baby Products presented Jenny and Bryan Masche with various baby necessities at Banner Memorial Medical Center on June 19th in Phoenix, Ariz.

“The Bumkins family is thrilled that six healthy babies were born here in the Phoenix area,” said Jakki Liberman, President of Bumkins Finer Baby Products. “We wish them the best of luck with everything in the future.”

The Masche sextuplets were born on June, 11th at Banner Memorial Medical Center in Phoenix, AZ. The babies are Arizona's first known set of surviving sextuplets.

The Masche's received Bumkins signature All-In-One cloth diapers, Organic Naturals bibs, burp cloths, towel sets and washcloths as well as waterproof starter bibs, all in various colors and patterns.

Bumkins Finer Baby Products is based in Scottsdale, Arizona and was founded over fifteen years ago by Jakki Liberman, who through necessity, developed the All-In-One Cloth Diaper to assist her in caring for her four children. Bumkins has grown to offer an ever-expanding line of premium baby apparel and accessory products with a strong focus on function and design.

For more information visit www.bumkins.com